CHILD RIGHT POLICY

Child

A "Juvenile" or "child" is defined as anyone under the age of 18, as per section 2(k) of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 as amended in 2006 with the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child.

About the Child Protection

“Child protection means identifying the possible abuse of children, discrimination, and exploitation and prevents, and takes up measures to take action against the abusers or perpetrators through complaint mechanism”

Child Protection is about protecting children from or against any perceived or real danger to their life, their personhood and childhood.

It is about reducing their vulnerability to any kind of harm-social, psychological and emotional. It must ensure that no child falls out of the security and safety net and those who do, receive necessary care and protection and are brought back into the safety net.

Four basic Child Protection Principles according to UN CRC 1989

1. Non discrimination (Art 2)
2. In the interest of the children (Art 3)
3. Right to Life and development (Art. 6)
4. Upholding the right to expression of children (Art 12)

We believe that child protection is crucial to ensuring that children under 18 years of age have the rights, confidence and environment in which they can make choices, express their views and Communicate effectively with other children and adults. Children cannot become empowered change agents to improve their lives and that of their families and communities if they are not safeguarded from abuse, discrimination and harm of any kind, be it physical, sexual, emotional or neglect.

Child Abuse:

These definitions therefore point to four types of cruelty:

- Physical abuse: including hurting or injuring a child, inflicting pain, poisoning, drowning, or smothering.
- Sexual abuse: including direct or indirect sexual exploitation or corruption of children by involving them (or threatening to involve them) in inappropriate sexual activities.
- Emotional abuse: repeatedly rejecting children, humiliating them or denying their worth and rights as human beings.
- Neglect: the persistent lack of appropriate care of children, including love, stimulation, safety, nourishment, warmth, education, and medical attention.

This Code of Conduct includes guidance on appropriate and expected standards of behaviour of adults towards children, and also of children towards other children. It has been developed with the best interests of the child as the primary consideration and should be interpreted in a spirit of transparency and common sense.

Don'ts for Staff and others:

- Hit or otherwise physically assault or physically abuse children
- Kiss, hug, fondle, rub, or touch a child in an inappropriate or culturally insensitive way
- Develop physical/sexual relationships with children

- Discriminate against, show differential treatment, or favour particular children to the exclusion of others.

- Empower children- discuss with them their rights, what is acceptable and unacceptable, and what they can do if there is a problem.
